STAMFORD, CT – The Performing Arts are alive and well...and affordable in Stamford. It has been said that art can transport you to another place and time. Saturday's dance performance in Stamford did exactly that, providing its audience with an entertaining experience as it brought together the worlds of hip hop, jazz, modern, Broadway follies, and Latin flavor.

On Saturday, May 2, 2009, the Butterfly Project Fund, Inc., a non-profit organization based in Stamford, Connecticut, presented a showcase of a variety of dance genres. The performance, titled "Dance Fusion," served as a benefit performance for the scholarships provided by the Butterfly Project Fund. The organization conducts fundraisers in and around Fairfield County and encourages the participation of individuals and groups from the surrounding communities.

Participating dance groups included Jazzworx of Norwalk, CT; YC Dance Force and Latin Moves Dance Studio's Bomba Team both of Stamford, CT; Supernatural of Massachusetts; and Hypnotize of New York.

Each group presented intricate pieces in their chosen style of dance. Throughout the evening each piece was presented to the audience with its own energy and attitude. The atmosphere in the auditorium was dynamic, changing with each performance. The audience witnessed fusion of these dance styles as they came together creating a phenomenal presentation of the arts while retaining the integrity of each piece.
